“The ‘medium’ mediates”. It translates artists’ ideas, messages or impulses connecting their skill and sensibility with constant expectations of personal and societal whirlpool of aspirations, and concerns.

MATIREAL brings together artworks in which conscious material choice, quite un-orthodox, has become a means of the artists’ expression, challenging the notion that certain materials are unsuitable for art. It charts the journey of material exploration, as they break the barriers of different languages and concepts, making every communication and dialogue possible.

Through this exhibit, we hope to discover new horizons in contemporary art, revealing the capacity for experimentation is almost endless, and it is what keeps the art growing.
