The exhibition opens multiple perspective of our society. Inspired by contemporary issues, these young artists from Baroda show diversity in today's experimentation with material and theme. The works not only project sensibilities of our time, but also questions the changing vocabulary of our visual language. With one step in the past and one in the present the question of value and principle retain centre stage in every piece. Destabilising these self-governing values the works present interesting connection in the form of metaphors and metonym. The growing accretion in the form of modern aphorisms the show opens a whole set of approach to our contemporary world.
